RESEARCH INTERESTS	My research interests center on behavioral cybersecurity, human–AI interaction, agentic AI, information search and consumption, online communities, and AI-enabled analytics. I investigate these topics using behavioral experiments, survey research, statistical modeling, and computational analytics.
TEACHING INTERESTS	My teaching interests include business statistics and analytics, SQL and database management, information systems analysis and design, decision modeling, cybersecurity, and AI for business. I emphasize both conceptual foundations and hands-on applications that help students use data and technology to solve real-world business problems.
